

KARWAN

INTRODUCTION

Traveling has not only been something that I do, but it has been something that has become a part of me. I have this passion to travel. I haven't been across the globe or to every continent; but, I've had my share of travel and it's only the beginning. When I get stuck on a consistent routine, I get an itch to pack up my bags and go somewhere spontaneous. Whether it's by car or plane, there isn't anything more exciting than traveling to make new experiences and memories that will last forever. Meeting people from all over the world is the most rewarding part about traveling. The conversations will build knowledge and may lead to bigger opportunities. Networking is becoming a powerful tool and communication is valuable for travelers craving new experiences.
